LONDON, June 17.—Capture of Jebel and Madani, south-southwest of Damascus in Syria, by Allied forces was announced by British military authorities today.

British and Free French troops now are attacking Aatouz, only six miles from the Syrian capital, according to the announcement.

Military authorities admitted that light Vichy naval forces have been operating against British warships off the Lebanese coast and said these French units probably are based at Beirut.

In addition it was admitted that "possibly some hits have been scored against British vessels."

(In a broadcast picked up by CBS, the free French radio station at Brazzaville, French Equatorial Africa, said that "despite all denials the Germans are still very numerous in Syria". The Brazzaville announcer added that photographs have been taken of the Aleppo air-drome "and the columns of planes on the ground are clearly and irrevocably recognized as Junkers".)

Heavy Fighting

With British Forces In Syria, June 17.—Heavy fighting developed below Damascus today as Vichy forces launched a sudden attack in a desperate effort to prevent the British and free French forces from capturing the age-old Syrian capital.

Troops commanded by Gen. Henri Dentz, French high commissioner for Syria, supported by motorized columns and cavalry, suddenly attacked and took the town of Ezra. They then pushed forward in a

PA NEW OBSERVES

New Castle city council is planning to enact an ordinance which will provide regulations for operation of bicycles on the streets. All traffic laws apply to bicycles, but it appears that special regulations are necessary to aid in safety for bicycle riders. Too many boys and girls ride bicycles contrary to traffic rules, and do other bicycle stunts which are hazardous.

Most of the streams in this area are new at their highest stage of the past few months, due to recent heavy rains. Fishermen will probably have better angling for a time, or until the waters recede again to a low stage.

For about ten days, the clock in the tower of the First Christian church on the Diamond has been out of commission. It was reported this morning that the clock mechanism was affected by lightning, and an electrician was at work repairing the damage. Folks will be glad when they will be able to check again with the clock for the time of day.

BERLIN, June 17.—The German government today took what it termed "effective" retaliatory action against President Roosevelt's measure "freezing" Axis funds in the United States.

In line with previous indications that the Reich would adopt a "tit for tat" policy, a brief official announcement said:
"The Reich government today has ordered necessary measures concerning the assets of United States citizens effective immediately in reply to President Roosevelt's action."

EDITOR'S NOTE: Only a short time previously, Italy had acted in reprisal by "freezing" all American individual, company and corporation funds as well as all American holdings and property in Italy "as an act of legitimate retaliation."

May Not Take Action

At the same time the semi-official news service Deutscher Dienst indicated that despite reports to the contrary published abroad Germany might not seek to retaliate for yesterday's order issued in Washington closing all Nazi consulates and various tourist and "propaganda" agencies.

(Special To The News)

HERSHEY, June 17.—Twelve-year-old Jimmy Elias, New Castle representative in the National Marbles tournament, battled in the late matches of the second round of play today to retain his tie for first place in his league of the northern section.

Playing on the rings of the Hershey Park Golf Club, Jimmy won 12 games and lost three yesterday to share top honors with the Greensburg champion. His mibbing today, however, netted him only seven wins out of the first 12 games.

The Greensburg youth copped 11 games out of 12. Both had three games more to play when the dinner gong sounded.

If Jimmy wins his league play, he will receive a bicycle and will advance to the sectional finals. A victory there would bring him a gold wrist watch and a trip to Wildwood, N. J., to play in the national finals.

McKeesport Mayor Talks To Employees Of City On Strike

(International News Service)

MCKEESPORT, Pa., June 17.—Shortly after Mayor George H. Lysle barred union representatives and refused to exclude newspapermen from the conference, striking municipal employees met today with the veteran executive and members of his council to "talk over" their wage demands.

The meeting got underway after Mayor Lysle told John Barnes, CIO representative, that he would not talk to the employees as union officials. Barnes left the meeting by request, although four officers-members of the union remained.

Swarms Of British Bombers Again Raid Western Germany

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 17.—Swarms of R. A. F. bombers hammered western Germany for the sixth successive night and also plastered the German-occupied French coast in a blistering assault that lasted from 1 a. m. to dawn today.

In Germany the Cologne and Dusseldorf districts bore the brunt of the British attacks on the Ruhr and Rhineland areas.

The air ministry said many fires were started.

Tons Of Bombs Dropped

During the past five nights, British officials estimated, the R. A. F. has dropped more than 2,000 tons of high explosive bombs and many thousand fire bombs on the Ruhr and Rhineland areas.

While the British attacks were in progress, German raiders were active over England. An air ministry communique said a few bombs were dropped on the east coast and western and southwestern England, but that damages and casualties were slight.

Three of the German raiders were declared to have been destroyed.

Widespread Attack

The attack on western Germany developed into a widespread attack against industrial areas of the Ruhr and other sections which have been subjected to repeated, damaging bombings for nearly a week.

Strong Protest Will Be Made On Robin Moor

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles indicated the U. S. government plans quick delivery of a vigorous protest over the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor in the south Atlantic by a German submarine.

In response to questions at his press conference, Welles said the rescue of the 35 missing survivors of the Robin Moor by a British vessel in no way affected the basic position of this government concerning the incident.

Welles previously has made it clear that the United States regards the sinking and the setting adrift of the passengers in lifeboats in the middle of the south Atlantic as a flagrant violation of international law.

Fighting In Sollum Area

London And Berlin Reports Indicate Fighting Is Continuing

(International News Service)

LONDON, June 17.—British military authorities said today that fighting is continuing near Sollum, Egypt, where British forces have launched a new drive against axis troops.

No details regarding the respective positions of the contending forces have reached London. It was stated, but it was indicated that the operations are developing.

For the time being, however, the drive was described as "still a local advance."

Terrific Fighting

Berlin, June 17.—The German high command announced today that "terrific fighting" is continuing in the Sollum area of northwestern Egypt, where a British drive began yesterday.

A war communique said the battle raged throughout yesterday and that a large-scale British attack was beaten down. One hundred British tanks were declared to have been destroyed.

A German military spokesman said:
"The fighting is going favorably everywhere for the Italo-German forces."

Italian Paper Admits U. S. Aid Becomes Factor

(International News Service)

MILAN, June 17.—Premier Mussolini's newspaper, Popolo D'Italia, today admitted that American aid to Britain was becoming an increasingly important factor in the war.

"It must be admitted," the paper said, "that American participation, particularly aeronautical, is of steadily increasing efficiency and extensiveness."

"The time factor would work in favor of the Anglo-Saxons if the Axis permitted the months necessary for adequate help to England."

"But Axis air power alone may starve Britain and force capitulation—with invasion following instead of preceding an Axis victory."

House Committee Seeks Early Vote On Anti-Strike Bill

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Determined to write into law an anti-strike bill with "teeth" in it, the House military affairs committee today called upon House leaders to permit an early vote on a drastically revised Senate plant seizure and draft age limit bill.

The committee followed its action in approving the bill late yesterday by instructing Chairman May (D-Ky.) to seek a special rule for its consideration.

In addition to anti-strike provisions, the House committee approved a provision for mandatory deferment from the draft of men reaching the age of 28 by July 1. The Senate provision, while identical as to age, merely granted discretionary authority to President Roosevelt for deferment.

"This has the effect of reducing the draft age limit from 36 to 28," said May. It would make the age limits 21 to 28.

House Bill Provisions

Scrapping the Senate bill's anti-strike provisions, including the Connally and Byrd amendments, the House bill:

Long Emergency For United States Seen By Stimson

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Secretary of War Stimson today warned Congress that the United States "must prepare for a very long emergency."

Stimson appeared before the House Rivers and Harbors Committee urging approval of the proposed $300,000,000 St. Lawrence Waterway and Power project. The secretary estimated it would take about four years to complete this project.

"Do you think defense measures will be necessary four or five years from now?" Chairman Mansfield (D-Tex.) asked.

"I can only speak on that with the reservations anyone in 1941 must have who speaks on the great drama abroad," Stimson replied.

"In my opinion it is necessary to prepare for a very long emergency. We all hope it will be brief, but we cannot afford to act on hope."

Mussolini Spokesman Accuses U. S. Of Economic War Against Axis Nations

(BULLETIN)

ROME, June 17.—Virginia Gayda, press spokesman for Premier Mussolini, today accused President Roosevelt of an "open declaration of economic war" against Germany and Italy.

Denouncing American seizure of Axis ships and "freezing" of German and Italian funds, Gayda said: "Deliberately provocative American economic and financial measures against Italians and Germans, together with terrorist penalties constitute an open declaration of offensive economic warfare."

"They constitute a new and important step toward wilful and deliberate American participation in real war. Every day open hostilities between the United States and the Axis draw closer."

"America's policy of brutal theft factually reveals itself as no less an outrageous crime—so far as the peaceful civil interests of Italians are concerned—than that of Great Britain."

Gayda said that Italian holdings in the United States total $63,000,000.

U. S. Anticipates Retaliatory Move By Germany Soon

Severing Of Diplomatic Relations May Develop Is Capital Belief

WILL LIKELY ORDER U. S. CONSULS HOME

Expect Early Action As Result Of President Ordering Consulates Here Closed

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff
Correspondent

WASHINGTON, June 17.—The view prevails in authoritative quarters in Washington today that diplomatic relations between the United States and Germany are likely to be completely severed before long.

It would cause no surprise in official circles in Washington if Germany should break off relations in retaliation for this government's action in demanding the withdrawal by July 10 of all Nazi consuls and propaganda agents in this country.

It Berlin does not go this far, it is expected the Nazis will order all American consuls in Germany withdrawn. There are 55 American consular officers in Germany at present, 24 of whom are stationed in Berlin.

Fear New Incidents
American officials in close touch with the situation fear that new incidents are likely to occur before long, especially at sea, and they believe one of them probably will lead to a snapping of the already seriously strained relations.

In the event relations are severed, one of the Latin American nations probably will be requested to take over representation of this country's interests in Germany.

Apart from the improper activities of the German consular agents in this country, consular relations with Germany have been far from satisfactory for some time. The American consuls in Germany have experienced what they consider unnecessarily long delays in obtaining exit permits for American nationals who wish to come home.

Espionage Agents
The American government has known for some time that German consuls in this country were acting as virtual espionage agents, reporting on the progress of the American defense program and especially on the aid being sent to Great Britain.

Whether the government suspects any of the German consuls or other agents of plotting sabotage acts against American industry could not be ascertained.

However, it was recalled that of-

U. S. Ship Survivors Adrift 13 Days

Thirty-Five Are Landed Safely

Survivors At South Africa Tell Same Story As Brazil Survivors

BELIEVE GERMAN U BOAT IN ATTACK

(International News Service) CAPE TOWN, June 17. — Thirty-five survivors from the torpedoed American steamer Robin Moor disembarked today from a British vessel which picked them up in the South Atlantic from small boats in which they had been set adrift.

Eleven other survivors from the Robin Moor previously had arrived at Recife, Brazil. Thus all 46 persons aboard the sunken ship now have been accounted for.

The Robin Moor passengers and crew members who arrived in Cape Town were picked up June 2 after drifting 13 days in small boats following the torpedoing of the Robin Moor by a submarine.

Evidence that the attacking submarine was German was strengthened by Chief Officer Melvin V. Mundy of the Robin Moor, who went aboard the submarine in a small boat after the Robin Moor had been signalled to stop.

Get Off In Half An Hour He was told to get all passengers and crew off his ship within half an hour and he said he was handed bandages which bore German markings.

Mundy and other officers of the American ship said that except for the markings on the bandages and black bread they were given and the German accent of one of the submarine's crew, there was no evidence of the U-boat's nationality.

Relating how the survivors were picked up after thirteen days adrift, Mundy said he first sighted a distant black speck which later proved to be a British steamer.

The survivors then saw a puff of black smoke from the steamer, which they interpreted as a signal the ship had sighted them. Later, however, they learned the steamer had mistaken the lifeboats for a submarine and had ordered all hands to action stations.

Describing the sinking of the Robin Moor, Mundy said he had been on watch on the ship's bridge early in the morning on May 21 when he noticed a "blinker" signaling a request for identification of his ship.

Must Sink You He replied that the steamer was the American vessel Robin Moor.

The submarine then asked the Robin Moor to send a boat across, and later when Mundy boarded the submarine he was asked for the ship's papers and the nature of its cargo.

The submarine commander then said: "You have supplies for my country's energies and I must sink you within 20 minutes."

Mundy said he requested 30 minutes and that the submarine commander promised to send an SOS giving the Robin Moor's position so that the passengers and crew would be rescued.

After passengers and crew took to the lifeboats, a torpedo and 33 shells were fired at the Robin Moor, Mundy related, and she sank in 17 minutes.

U. S. ANTICIPATES RETALIATORY MOVE BY GERMANY SOON

Official representatives of the German government engaged in sabotage plots and activities in this country in the last World War and at a time when the United States was rendering much less aid to Great Britain than it is giving at present.

While the activities of the German consuls and other official representatives in this country undoubtedly have been causing concern to the government, there also is reason to believe that the sinking of the American merchantman Robin Moor by a German submarine in the south Atlantic had a considerable bearing on the decision to oust the Nazi consuls and propaganda agents at this time.

The drastic order affects 25 German consular offices on American soils, the German library of information in New York, the German railway and tourist agencies and the trans-ocean news service.

Residents of England's Kent coast heard heavy explosions on the other side of the Channel that lasted for hours.

EDITOR'S NOTE: An official German communiqué said nine British bombers were shot down by night fighters when R. A. F. raiders during the night penetrated western Germany, dropping bombs on various cities.

Yesterday afternoon, the British air ministry announced, R. A. F. planes carried out offensive operations over the French coast during which the Boulogne railway station and a large store house were hit. The British bombers were escorted by fighters.

Numerous air combats developed during the raid, in which 10 German fighters and one seaplane were declared to have been shot down. British losses were put at two bombers and four fighters.

GOVERNOR JAMES MAKES REDUCTIONS

mission and eliminated all funds for the administration of county mental hospitals.

In red-penciling the mental hospital appropriation of $3,830,000, the governor brought down on his head the wrath of House Majority Leader Leo A. Achtermann, who termed a "deliberate violation of the laws of this commonwealth."

Must Provide Revenue

The governor pointed out that the state was "required" to take over 12 county mental institutions on June 1 because of the House's refusal to postpone for another two years the 1938 act requiring the state to supervise the care of all insane persons.

"If the House insists upon its stance, it must provide additional revenue to meet the added appropriation," the governor stated, thus reiterating the view he expressed earlier that funds for this purpose are not available. Eleven of the hospitals are still being administered by counties, with the state obligated to reimburse them later for the cost.

Retaliating against the action of the House in reducing by 17 per cent the funds for the Republican department of commerce, Governor James slashed the funds for the Democratic auditor general and treasury departments by the same percentages. He not only eliminated the $179,759 increase made by the House, but went even further and slashed $246,500 from the amount the auditor general asked for the department. Similarly, with the treasury department, he eliminated a $264,000 increase plus another $107,775 topped off his own estimates.

Under the law the governor can reduce but cannot increase legislative appropriations. It was therefore expected that the governor would ask the Legislature to enact a deficiency appropriation bill to cover the slashes made by the House in his departmental budgets. Rough sledding awaits this request in the House, but it may permit horse-trading.

Eliminates Appropriation

In further retaliation on his Democratic opponents, the governor entirely eliminated the $150,000 appropriation made for the administration of the joint state government commission, a legislative study body which came under Democratic control last January.

Other cuts made by the governor included these: $47,500 in the $57,500 appropriation for soil conservation; $1,600,000 in the $3,000,000 appropriation for the payment of cattle indemnities; $800,000 in the $3,200,000 appropriation for increased teachers salaries in fourth class districts; and $40,360 in the amount asked for the Legislature.

Governor James approved some of the increases, however, notably $6,308,000 for increased aid to schools. The House refused to postpone the effective date of the 1937 act, as was done in 1939, thus bringing it automatically into effect last June 1.

In signing the general appropriations bill, Governor James released approximately $10,000,000 in the treasury's general fund. The remainder of the funds voted in the bill will not be forthcoming until the state has borrowed money to tide it over until tax revenues flow in. No money can be borrowed, however, until the Legislature enacts the tax anticipation note bill.

Adjournment Near

Achtermann said the conference committee considering this bill and the personal property and bank shares taxes would probably reach an agreement later this week, "thus permitting final adjournment next week." The House earlier refused to agree to Senate amendments inserted in the three measures, notably tax reductions.

Another conference committee is considering congressional reapportionment. Once these issues are agreed upon the Legislature can adjourn its session, which is now in its sixth month, providing new dispute do not rise between the House and the governor which would serve to delay further the session's close.

Governor James termed the House changes made in his budget "capricious and unreasonable."

It is estimated that 400,000 persons enter and leave penal institutions in the United States each year.

000, including the value of seized ships, while American property in Italy is worth $145,000,000.

Guido Rocco, director general of the Italian foreign press service, announced at a press conference Monday that the freezing of United States funds by Italy was a just and legal reprisal.

"The Italian freezing of United States funds," he declared "constitutes a just and legal reprisal against what we consider an unjust, illegal and illegitimate action by the United States."

Freezes Funds

Rome, June 17.—The official Italian Gazette today published a decree law effective immediately "freezing" all American individual, company and corporate funds as well as all American holdings, and property in Italy "as an act of legitimate retaliation."

The step was taken in reprisal for action by the United States government in "freezing" axis funds. Individual Americans previously had found themselves unable to cash checks or draw upon balances. Today's order was sweeping and allusive.

tion and mediation facilities. This is similar to the Connally amendment but in different language.

2. Authorizes the president, through the army and navy, to enforce an order to a plant to resume production in event of a strike by affording "protection to all persons engaged in the operation of such plant or industry who voluntarily desire to work in such plant or industry." This provision allows use of the army or navy to break picket lines.

3. Makes it unlawful, and punishable as sabotage with a five-year prison sentence, to "prevent or attempt by force or violence or threats, any person accept employment, continuing employment or entering or leaving defense plants." An added provision says peaceful picketing of the right to strike shall not be interfered with.

4. Prohibits workers refused employment in defense plants by reason of an order of the president from obtaining back wages by order of the National Labor Relations Board.

The House body ignored the Byrd amendment, adopted in the Senate, which condemned strike.

Rep. Harness (R) Ind., who sponsored the amendment, permitting use of the army and navy to break picket lines, declared that workers' rights are preserved under it.

"If the government drafts industry, it does not draft four brick walls—the men must go with it," said Harness. "They become government employees. You can't strike against the government, and it will hire and fire as it pleases. The president can suspend the wage and hour law in government establishments."

"Under our proposal, the government would provide that men who want to work will have protection. It does not force them to work, and it does not deny the right to strike or collective bargaining."

The bill, it is indicated, will reach the House floor next week.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TOLERANCE NEEDED IN EDUCATION

Lately I've been thinking of the intolerance of those who call themselves tolerant; intolerance of youth toward age, of "progressives" in education toward those they dub conservatives; of modern parents toward their forebears.

Usually I prefer to listen to sermons by preachers whom most people would class as liberals. But I have been amazed at times with the intolerance expressed by these "liberals" toward the beliefs of those they class as leaders of the "outmoded beliefs and practices."

So in education. The burden of the average popular address before an educational convention is to point out how ridiculously benighted educators used to be, and how superior they are now. So also the parent educator pokes fun at the ignorant parents of yesterday. Here I confess guilt, sitting in a glass house with a pocket full of stones. I should do better. I should always be considerate of the beliefs and teachings of others who differ sharply with me.

Principles Unchanged
One time, as I was waiting for a train just after the close of a state P. T. A. convention, a group of delegates and I were recalling some of the things our parents believed in and did until one of the group spoke up with the challenge: "Well, we laugh at some of the beliefs, ideals and standards of our forebears, but what have we of value to put in their place?" Penitently I replied, "Yes, what?"

We live in a very different age from the age in which our parents lived. Yet the basic principles of right and wrong are unchanged.

As we try to evaluate, especially with our children, those things our parents lived by, we can afford to dwell on the values our parents gained, or thought they gained, and the unswerving fortitude with which they followed, in the light they had, their ideals and standards.

As we exercise more appreciation for the parenthood of our own parents, our children might be able to grow more tolerant of us. At least, we might better understand these children when they consider us old-fashioned.

Sharing Parent Problems
Q. What is the best thing for me to do when my child frets about the speed tests, especially in arithmetic, at school?

A. Don't condemn the teacher before the child. Help him master the skills he most often is tested on at school. The average child who suffers under such speed tests has never learned accurately and has heard the 100 basic addition facts and the 100 basic subtraction facts. Write me at 235 East 45th street, N. Y. City, and let me send you a copy of each group of number facts. Then induce him to memorize them, attacking only four or five a day, without haste but with great care and precision. The child who knows them well can say them quickly.

The World and the Mud Puddles

BACK TO "UNCLE SAM"

A long and eventful chapter in American history has ended with the return to Federal ownership of the last of the early railroad land grants.

For the last six months negotiations have been going on to liquidate these millions of acres of private holdings and turn them over to be administered under the conservation program of the Department of the Interior. In the course of this liquidation process, more than 2,000,000 acres in Southern California, over 1,500,000 acres in New Mexico and vast tracts amounting to 4,500,000 acres, sweeping eastward from Oregon and Washington to Wisconsin, have been returned to government control.

In all, some seventy-five grants totaling 158,293,000 acres—an area greater than thirteen original colonies—have been brought into the public domain. Just ninety years ago the United States offered its first rail subsidy in making a land grant to an Illinois railroad. The year 1850 saw the beginning of an era of pell-mell westward expansion.

The country wanted rail transportation and wanted it in a hurry. A generous Uncle Sam, rich in lands, he then had no use for, gave away millions of acres in grants and rights of way to anyone who would build railroads. Many of these grants were later sold to the public by the recipients at handsome prices.

Though seldom on so wide a scale, the government has always, with the exception of motor vehicles, subsidized most forms of transportation. The authoritative seven-year study of subsidies undertaken by Federal Coordinator Eastman has found government subsidies in recent years, running as follows: To water transportation, $129,528,000; to railroads, $35,635,000; to air transportation, $21,010,000; while highway users actually overpaid $110,722,000 in costs properly chargeable to them.

However, the era when Uncle Sam gave land grant subsidies, amounting to one-tenth the continental area of the United States, has now definitely closed. Another chapter in the growth of the West has become history.

A Pennsylvania State Senator got in very bad by charging some member of the senate with taking bribes. That is a bad thing to do unless names and amounts are mentioned.

Somebody in Georgia has found the difference between death and taxes. "Death doesn't get worse every time a legislature meets."

A McKeesport man who was acquitted for murdering his first wife and was divorced from his second wife is now being sued for a divorce by his third wife. That bird will be under suspicion if he don't slow up on the marrying business.

Captain, are you sure this is a good boat?

Well, madam, it's her maiden voyage.

Think twice before you speak and the chances are ten to one someone will take the words right out of your mouth and get away with them.

Cruelty is the cause given for many divorces. Just turning the nose up may be one of the causes.

Harry Sands, 41, who says he helped save a drowning man at Coney Island by tossing him a life preserver, was fined $2 by Magistrate Francis X. Giaccone for refusing to get out of the way while the man was being revived. "The next time I see a man drowning I'll let him drown," griped Sands. "No more being a good Samaritan—it doesn't pay."

Probably it would be better with the world in general if the women were to take over brotherly love. They might put it across.

The salesman signed the hotel register and, being very tired, went straight to bed. At 10 o'clock he was awakened by a knock on the door. He got up, unlocked the door and saw the swaying figure of an intoxicated man who stood with a key in his hand. The drunk stared at him in surprise, said "Pardon—how did you get in here?" and went swaying down the corridor.

The salesman got back into bed and went to sleep. A few minutes later he was awakened again. He opened the door, and there was the drunk.

The fellow said "Pardon—hic—me" and staggered off.

Six times during the next two hours the same thing happened. The last time the salesman was furious. He jerked open the door, and confronted the drunk. The latter stepped back, a look of disgust on his face.

"Heavens!" he said, "have you hic—got all the rooms in this hotel?"

But it isn't likely that smoking does him any more harm than his conscience does when he tries to quit and fails.

When Uncle Sam Takes Things Over
Workers Receive Better Wages
Could Conscript Labor If Necessary

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 17.—Prevention of strikes by governmental threats to seize plants where workers do walk out is a scheme with one puncture in it which isn't generally mentioned.

It's this:

Having seized a plant, of course the government has to operate it. Otherwise there wouldn't be any point in having seized it. A governmental management must be put in for the period of the emergency. The emergency management has to have workers, just as the plant's preceding private management had to have 'em, to maintain production.

And if the workers aren't available on a voluntary basis, the proposition is that the government can conscript 'em, which production plants' private owners can't do.

Ah, yes, but the government isn't likely to have to resort to industrial conscription. Why not? Why, because the government, in such industries as it does operate, pays considerably higher wages and provides better working conditions than private managements like to agree to. Consequently, when the government seizes a private plant and begins to operate it, workers are pretty certain to gravitate in that plant's direction very voluntarily indeed, without needing to be conscripted. They may even struggle and strive among themselves to get out of private employment and into the government's.

Suppose, then, the case of a big private industry with a lot of strike-ishy-inclined workers. And suppose that the government, in order to scare them out of the idea of quitting, warns 'em, "Dash-ding you shaps' souls! If you DARE to strike, Uncle Sam'll grab the plant that you work for—and you'll get your pay raised."

Intimidation?
Is that going to intimidate those workers much?

Private ownerships probably don't fancy the notion of having their plants taken away from 'em. I can understand that the governmental-seizure notion may tend to make THEM amenable. But I'm darned if I can see how a threat of higher pay is going to prevent an average workman from striking.

To be sure, he's notified that, if he strikes, he'll forfeit his deferment as a selective service registrant. Any number of skilled workers, though, are too old to be caught by selective service, whatever they may do.

Another suggestion's made, to scare these oldsters. If they strike on any job essential to nationally defensive production, they're to be ineligible for any subsequent employment in a defense industry. The trouble with that is that they'll be urgently NEEDED. Workers already are scarce and getting scarcer.

Seize a competent mechanic strikes for more pay. The government takes over the strike-bound plant that he's been working for, and boosts its wages above the figure that he struck for. So he applies for a job, at the increased pay rate, from his ex-plant's newly established governmental emergency management.

And assume that that management simply is perishing for mechanics, of just the type that he is. Isn't that management likely to wink at his past and be blamed glad to get him?

This appears to me to be the reasoning of a good many of our currently active strike organizers.

Leaders Suspicious
A few of our top-notch labor leaders, like William Green, Philip Murray, Sidney Hillman and Dan Tobin, take a thoroughly patriotic view of the situation; they're awfully suspicious of the strike agitators, as Communists or some other classification of totalitarians.

And they may be right about it. I've a theory of my own that some, at least, of the pro-strike fines, deliberately want to strike-ize American industry into governmentalization, figuring that it'll be mighty difficult to degovernmentalize it later. If so, there's a bit of logic in their calculations.

When the emergency passes, industry's apt to be hard put to it to restore itself to private-paying profits, and perhaps the government will HAVE to keep on supporting it. That'll suit totalitarianism 100 per cent.

Anyway, I'm tickled half to death to be old enough to have no prospect of living far on into the reconstruction era.

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON—President Roosevelt instructs American war industry to utilize all of the nation's man-power without respect to race, religion, color or national origin.

"Our government cannot countenance continued discrimination against American citizens in defense production. No nation combating the increasing threat of totalitarianism can afford arbitrarily to exclude large segments of its population from its defense industries."

HARTFORD, Conn.—Gen. George C. Marshall, chief of staff of the American army, pleads for national unity.

"The time has come for the people to unify completely and spiritually behind the army and navy, to unify as quickly as we can, to unify as quickly as we can."

NEW YORK—Archbishop Francis J. Spellman extolls Ireland as a peaceful nation at a solemn pontifical mass in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

"This hallowed land of saints and scholars is a bright spot in the present dark, disordered world. She wishes to preserve her peace."

NEW HAVEN—Hugh R. Wilson, former U. S. ambassador to Germany, warns:

"In Germany there is not only a leader who has turned his qualifications to evil purposes but there is a carefully planned effort to carry into the future the devotion of leadership qualities to evil purposes."

MOTHER SAYS
Mother says and frowns at me: "Grown-up soon I ought to be. Married five and thirty years. Still no sign of sense appears. Other men, and younger, too. Do as old men ought to do."

"You," she mutters, "act as though you were never meant to grow."

"Reached the grandpa age, and still thinking you can run up hill. Gray and fat and wrinkled, too. Racing round as youngsters do. Dodging cares that should be met. Headless as a school boy yet. Seems you never will commence Getting dignity or sense."

"Other men," the mother cries, "Solemn look and very wise. Other men wear gloves and spats. Swallow tails and high silk hats. And like actors on the stage. Carry well the weight of age. You refuse to play the part. You are just a boy at heart!"

BIRTHDAYS OF FAMOUS AMERICANS

(Compiled by Encyclopaedia Britannica)

JUNE 17

1743—John Lowell, jurist, at Newburyport, Mass. As a member of the Massachusetts Constitutional Convention in 1779, he helped draft the state constitution. He was a member of the Continental Congress in 1781, of the New York-Massachusetts Boundary Commission in 1784, and a judge of the United States Circuit Court for the First District.

1828—David Ames Wells, economist at Springfield, Mass. He was chairman, 1865, of the National Revenue Commission, which laid the basis of scientific taxation in the United States. The creation of the Federal Bureau of Statistics in the Treasury Department was largely due to his influence.

1862—Charles Frohman, theatrical manager, at New York City. He entered the theatrical business in 1877 and at various times was connected with several New York theatres. He was an adept in developing talent. Among the successful players were Maude Adams, Ethel Barrymore, Julia Marlowe, Billie Burke, William Gillette and Otis Skinner.

Dinner Stories

A housewife got this letter recently:

"This chain was started in Reno in the hope of bringing happiness to all tired and discouraged wives. It is different from other chains in that it requires the wearing of money. All you have to do is send copies of this letter to five girl friends. Then pack up your husband and send him to the woman whose name heads the list. When your name gets to the top you will receive 1978 handsome men. You should have faith and not break the chain. One woman did and got her husband back."

WANTED: LINGUIST
An Englishman visiting Paris was ailing his French in one of the restaurants.

"Je desire un bit—un piece. I mean a pang," he said to the waiter who brought him his soup.

"I'm sorry, sir," said the waiter tactfully, "but I don't speak French."

"Well," said the Englishman, irritably, "kindly send someone who does."

National Pants Plant Employees Are Idle Today

Operations Halted Pending Settlement Of Wage Dispute In One Group

Due to a disagreement between a small group of employees of the National Pants Company and the management, the plant is idle today pending the arrival of union representatives.

According to Al Cohen, plant manager, a general increase in wages was granted about a week ago averaging about 10 per cent. In some cases the increase was more and in a few less. The agreement was entered into between the manager and the head of the union, Mrs. Julia Mills, and according to Mr. Cohen the agreement was satisfactory to both sides.

This morning the women engaged in three of the operations necessary to the making of garments refused to work on the grounds that they had not been given sufficient increase. About twenty five women are engaged in the three operations, it is stated.

Sooner than disjoin the schedule of operations Mr. Cohen said he decided to close the plant for the day and attempt to adjust the controversy with union representatives late this afternoon or tomorrow, he said.

The shutdown is not a strike merely a temporary cessation of operations pending an agreement, he says.

DRAGON HUNTING

BY NORMAN CHANDLER, CHAIRMAN, NEWSPAPER PUBLISHERS COMMITTEE

GET this little thought into your mind: A dictator—or any government by any name—never forbids freedom of thought and speech except from fear of the TRUTH.

It is the TRUTH that hurts. With the press and public speech completely FREE, a lie is quickly exposed.

We ought to keep these facts right up in front of us. For, every so often, even in free America, you hear agitation for "making" the newspapers or the radio "agree" with this or that group. Notice one thing: In every case it is some person or group anxious to have things ITS way when such agitation occurs.

Perhaps it isn't always the newspapers' own sleuthing which turns up public or private malefactors. But it is generally FROM NEWSPAPERS that YOU get the news!

That is the job of a newspaper—to slay dragons or furnish aid and support to the dragon hunters. Naturally, the DRAGON doesn't like it.

Hitler didn't take over all Germany's newspapers because they were FAILING to report facts and honest opinion. He took them over for the OPPOSITE reason. They were "in disagreement with the policy of the State."

Since he WAS "the State," that only meant the press disagreed with HIM.

Over here, we set our papers to the task of watching carefully for any signs that OUR power, the power of the PEOPLE, is being taken over by any group, whether it calls itself "government," or "business," or "labor," or the "Women's Pink Tea Club."

We value our LIBERTY, our RIGHTS, and we want to know ALL ABOUT anyone who dares to threaten our right to hear any side of any argument which concerns the public interest. We want the TRUTH. We think we can tell truth from lies if there's REAL freedom of expression.

Any time a newspaper fails to serve the PUBLIC, that newspaper is duly punished; many an EX-publisher can testify to the TRUTH of that!

Over 300 leading newspaper publishers join together to bring you this weekly message about the function of the press in a free nation. Newspaper Publishers Committee, 420 Lexington Avenue, New York.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

MAKE THE MOST OF THE 1941 HAY CROP

Dry weather will result in a short crop of hay in Lawrence county. Such seasons as this bring real appreciation of the greater ability of alfalfa to withstand drought. There is still hope, however, for a good second crop of clover if the first crop is gotten off early. After red or white clover reaches full bloom it will make little or no more growth even if the weather turns wet. Consequently, it is best to harvest promptly. The best way to insure the maximum second growth of red clover is to cut before ripening of the heads weakens the root system and there is a tendency to continue growth.

The light growth and the large percentage of grain stubble in most clover this year means quick drying. Unless raked up promptly, such crops may be difficult to gather and will lose greatly in feed value from undue exposure and shattering of dry leaves and finer parts.

In making high quality hay with the best color and feeding value, investigations show that after about a half-day in the swath hay will dry just about as fast in small loose windrows. There will be much less bleaching and shattering if the haymaker follows the rule of never leaving in the swath over night any grass or legumes cut before noon.

If there is sufficient moisture, it still is not too late to put in soybeans, Sudan grass, or millet to help fill the hay mow. Wheat or oats cut in the milk stage make hay about equal to good timothy, and quite a lot of it. Cutting grain crops for hay often saves the clover and timothy seeding which may die for lack of moisture if the so-called "nurse chop" is allowed to ripen.

STILL TIME TO PLANT SOME MORE SWEET CORN

Sweet corn may be planted as late as July 1. A short-season variety is safest to plant for the last crop. The inbred hybrids are more uniform and usually have greater vigor and disease resistance than the ordinary open-pollinated varieties. They are especially desirable in the early to mid-season yellow varieties.

Goldenbloss or Golden Bantam is the standard yellow hybrid variety, maturing in 85 to 90 days and producing a medium-sized ear of excellent quality. Spanscross 413 matures in 60 to 65 days, is somewhat hardy to frost, and has a short, thick ear and rather short stalks. Marcross 13.6 is a dependable early variety of very good quality, maturing in 65 to 70 days. Carmelcross 39.13 matures in 75 to 80 days and is excellent in quality. Whipcross 6.2 and Sencross 39 are thick-eared varieties of good quality maturing in 80 to 85 days. Iona is similar to Goldenbloss, not quite so good in quality but much more certain to produce a crop in a hot, dry season and has larger fodder.

Early Evergreen, Stowell's Evergreen, Narrow Grained Evergreen, and Little 8-Row are late-maturing white varieties.

A well-drained fertile soil which contains a large amount of organic matter is preferred. Sod ground, especially clover sod, is desirable when plowed early. Stable manure also is beneficial.

As much as 200 pounds an acre of 4-16-4 or similar analysis of commercial fertilizer may be applied directly in the row with the planter. However, up to 400 pounds per acre may be applied in parallel bands about two inches deep and 1½ inches from the seed, which is accomplished with some of the new fertilizer attachments. A larger application must be made when broadcast and worked deeply into the soil before planting.

The rate of planting is 6 to 8 pounds an acre or 2 to 3 ounces to 100 feet of row for the hybrids having smaller seed and 8 to 12 pounds an acre or 3 to 4 ounces to 100 feet of row for the open pollinated varieties. Spacing should be plants 10 to 12 inches apart in rows 3 feet apart or three plants to a hill when checked 3 by 3 feet.

SAVE BEANS FROM THE MEXICAN BEAN BEETLE

Beans can be saved from destruction by the Mexican bean beetle if proper precautions are taken. Several controls are available.

Spraying or dusting the plants with a quick-acting insecticide is necessary. Since the foliage of bean plants is very susceptible to arsenical injury, such materials should be employed cautiously.

A dust mixed at the rate of 1 pound of magnesium arsenate and 5 pounds of hydrated lime may be used. Prepare the materials in a dust mixer. This poison should be dusted on the under sides of the leaves on a calm day. Four or five treatments 10 days apart are considered sufficient to protect bush and pole beans.

If a spray is desired, it can be prepared at the rate of 2 pounds of magnesium arsenate in 50 gallons of water. This also is applied to the under sides of the leaves.

Arsenicals should not be applied after the beans have set on account of the danger of leaving poisonous residues that cannot be removed from the pods when they are harvested. The better practice is to use the arsenical at the beginning of the season and when control is needed later when the pods are developing to substitute rotenone. For a spray use 2 to 2½ ounces of Four per cent rotenone powder in 3 gallons of water for a garden dosage or 2 to 2½ pounds in 50 gallons of water for a field dosage. Wet the powder thoroughly in a small quantity of water before adding—the total quantity used. Three-fourths per cent rotenone dust is also effective if applied to the under side of the leaves.

CHECK CANNING EQUIPMENT TO AVOID DISAPPOINTMENT

This year—with all America defense-minded—both home and commercial canning are taking on new importance. Home canning, of course, is most economical on farms or in villages where families have the land to grow their garden stuff.

The homemaker who plans to "can as usual" this season will want to check her equipment and supplies before she gets into the full swing of the busy summer season. Here are some of the main points she will need to check according to Mrs. Julia Taylor, home economics extension representative, Lawrence County.

To can acid foods—fruits and tomatoes—it is best to use a water bath canner. There is little that needs to be checked on such a canner except to see that all the parts are together. Any simple vessel may be used that can be fitted with a rack for the bottom to set cans or jars on. There is need for a tight-fitting lid as well. A wash boiler or a bucket makes a good water bath canner if it is high enough to permit covering the cans or pails with one to two inches of water.

The safest way to can non-acid vegetables, chicken, or meat is in a steam pressure canner, for only in such a canner is it possible to get temperatures above boiling. These high temperatures are needed to be sure the organisms that cause spoilage are killed. The processing period is shortened considerably by the steam pressure method.

If you have a steam pressure canner it needs to be rechecked each year to see that the pressure gage registers correctly. If these gages are taken off and sent into the factory where they were made, manufacturers will check and adjust them.

A steam pressure canner is a wise investment for any family or a group of families in the community.

Containers may be glass jars or tin cans. Always test glass jars for leaks or defects before beginning to can. Discard any jars or caps that show cracks, chips, or dents.

Also throw away porcelain-lined metal lids if the lining is the least bit loose. Always buy new rubber rings for glass jars. Good rings stretch to twice their length.

If the wire clamps on glass jars are loose, tighten them by bending the wires down in the middle on top and inward at the sides.

The vacuum-sealed jar has a lacquered metal disk top. The under surface of the disk has a small groove filled with a hard wax-like compound which softens and adheres to the glass when heated. During the processing period, the top is held in place with a metal band. As the jar cools, the compound hardens, sealing the jar. Remove the metal band 24 hours after canning. Wash and dry the screw bands and store in a dry place until the next canning.

It is necessary to have new lids each year for vacuum-sealed jars.

Mrs. Taylor will be glad to answer any canning questions you may have. Call or write her at the Agricultural Extension Office, No. 206 Post Office Building, New Castle.

Mrs. Hewitt is compiling a list of several projects and shops showing location, hours of exhibition, and other information concerning the demonstration. This list will be made public soon. The local NYA leader also announced that the Lawrence county NYA office located at W. N. Aiken school building—226 Pearson street, 8:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. so that persons interested in obtaining information concerning the NYA program will be able to do so by visiting the office.

'ADOLESCENT COURTS'

(International News Service) SAN FRANCISCO.—"Adolescent courts" to take up where juvenile courts leave off was suggested by San Francisco District Attorney Matthew Brady. "The full responsibility for delinquency and crime should not be placed upon the school, the home, the church or the community alone," Brady said. "The fact is, that the problem of delinquency and its prevention is primarily one of united organization."

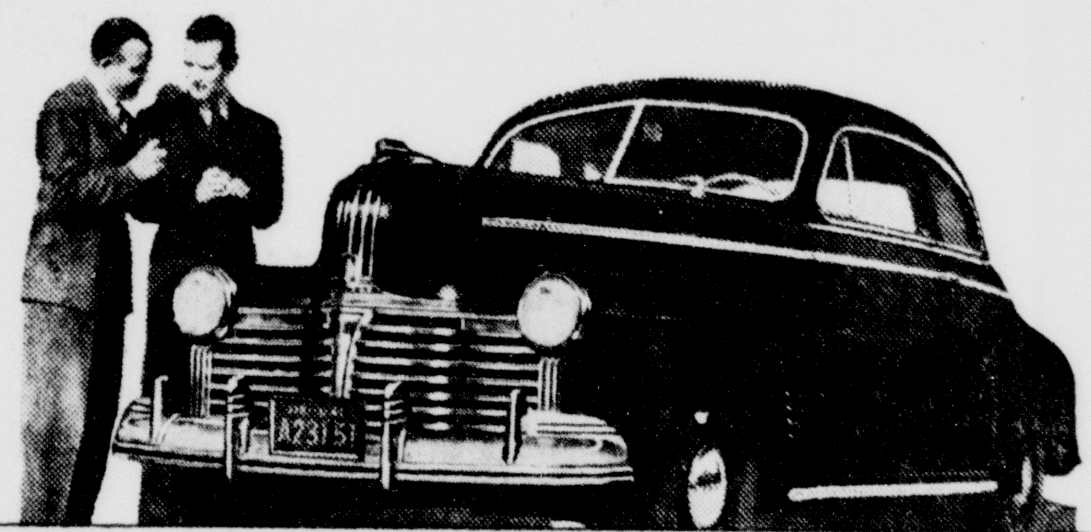

The 1940 census showed 13,288 incorporated places under 2,500 population. These had a combined population of 9,342,568—an increase of about 160,000 in spite of a decrease of 145 of such places.

Prominent Democrats Named By Cavalcante

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 17.—Names of prominent Democrats in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh were linked by State Sen. Anthony J. Cavalcante, (D) Fayette, today in his charges that a criminal conspiracy is operating in the legislature.

Cavalcante charged that the following men were "leaders and participants" in an east-west combine to press for the passage of special legislation:

David L. Lawrence, Pittsburgh Democratic national committeeman; John B. Kelly, Philadelphia Democratic chairman; James P. Kirk, Pittsburgh city treasurer; Harry Shapiro, Philadelphia senate Democratic leader; State Sen. Edward R. Frey, Pittsburgh, who is also Pittsburgh city controller; and Rep. Charles Melchiorre, chairman of the Philadelphia Democratic delegation in the house.

South New Castle Boro To Install New Fire Hydrant

Within the next week, a new fire hydrant will be installed at South New Castle Boro, at the corner of Morris and Treser avenues.

Work has already been started and by next week, it is expected that the installation will be completed.

At the recent meeting held by the South New Castle Boro Council, it was felt that a dire need necessitated the installation, and already the first steps have been taken, through the cooperation of the New Castle Water company.

July 2 is the date for the next council meeting, and reports of the hydrant will be discussed.

The famous outlaw, Jesse James was married to his first cousin Zerelda Mimms.

weights in Pennsylvania, the Fayette legislator described two dinners—"Belshazzarian feasts"—put on in Pittsburgh and Harrisburg for the lawmakers. He said that the Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association was active in efforts to promote passage of the measure.

Cavalcante failed to submit information concerning alleged bribery in connection with passage of the box-car bill and informed the joint legislative committee named to investigate his boodle charges that there was no need for him to appear before it.

As for his charges of cash distributed to pass the big truck bill, the western Pennsylvania legislator explained:

"Boodle need not be cash. It may take a million forms."

A portion of Cavalcante's speech in the senate was composed of quotations from news stories in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh newspapers. Democratic members of the senate expressed disappointment.

"There was nothing much in the speech to answer," commented Senator Shapiro.

Asks Unemployed To Cease Aimless Job Wandering

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 17.—The Pennsylvania State Employment Service today warned workmen seeking employment to cease "unplanned wandering from city to city, state to state."

Ernest Kelly, executive director, explained that since defense industries have created a shortage of certain workers it has been the province for employers' representatives to travel throughout the nation to interview prospective workmen. If satisfactory, he added, they are sent to the production plant.

State Will Handle Many More Pneumonia Patients

By LEONARD APPELBAUM
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 17.—Expanding facilities of the state department of health this year are expected to permit handling of 30,000 pneumonia patients, twice the number cared for in 1940.

Despite the increased efforts, 2,700 men, women and children in Pennsylvania will probably die from the disease during the year, according to Dr. Dale C. Stahle, director of the pneumonia control division of the state health department.

In the last five years Pennsylvania has made important strides in combatting pneumonia, pointed out Dr. Stahle. A declining death toll from the disease is emphasized in these figures: 1937, approximately 7100; 1938, 5800; 1939, 5000. During the first five months of 1941 there were 160 fewer deaths than during the corresponding period a year ago.

"We treated 15,000 patients in our 180 pneumonia-control stations last year," Dr. Stahle said, "and found that a majority of the cases could be cured by chemo-therapeutic agents."

The physician explained that pneumonia uses two methods in curing the disease: serum, dependable, but very expensive and used only where necessary; the other method, comparatively new, calls for the use of either sulapyridine or sulfathiazole.

"We try to determine in each case whether the patient will respond to the drug," he said, "and if he will, we confine our treatment to that rather than administer the serum."

Dr. Stahle explained that in some cases it is necessary to use both types in curing the patient. Rest, fresh air and wholesome food are also prime requisites, he explained.

"You can't prevent the disease," he added, "so the next best thing is to give the patient the proper care and treatment so as to cure it. Proper medical attention is mandatory."

Dr. Stahle disclosed that numerous other states, including New York, Illinois, Tennessee and Texas, have adopted a pneumonia control program similar to the one used in Pennsylvania. He said that medical examiners from various states have either written to his department or viewed at first hand the work being carried on in this state.

Another tribute to the success of the program was demonstrated when the U. S. Army and Navy adopted pneumonia control systems similar to Pennsylvania.

The story of the progress made here was recently related by Dr. Stahle at the annual convention of the American Medical Association in Cleveland, where delegates manifested considerable interest in the use of sulfa drugs in treating the disease.

But the work of the pneumonia control division is only one phase of the extensive health program underway in the state.

Secretary of Health Dr. John J. Shaw announced in May for the first time in the 35 years history of the department, the list of applicants for admission to a state tuberculosis sanatoria had been eradicated. Completion of the new infirmary at Mont Alto and addition of several new wards at Hamburg sanatorium made the absorption of the waiting list possible, he said.

Inspect Airplanes At Local Airport

Fliers Have 21 Airplanes Stored In Two Hangars At New Castle Field

John Ivanoff, aircraft inspector for the Civil Aeronautics Board, came to the New Castle Airport Monday to make a regular inspection of the airplanes there. All ships must be in A-1 condition at all times or they will be "grounded" by the inspector. The inspector checked the local ships for flying condition, state of repair and airworthiness.

At the present time there are 21 airplanes stored in two large hangars at the New Castle Airport, all belonging to local fliers.

Army Air Corps Uses Special Code To Identify Planes

Model Number Follows A Letter That Symbolizes The Special Function Of The Plane

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON—The Army Air Corps contends its method of identifying battle planes by numbers and letters is pretty simple—once you get the hang of it.

"The cabalistic letters and numbers on all U. S. Army Air Corps airplanes are not something intended to confuse the public," the corps says. "Quite the contrary, they are the Army's method of specific identification, and, if understood, provide an instantaneous key to the plane model."

The RAF gives its war planes names, such as the Spitfire and the Hurricane. The U. S. Army Air Corps, however, boasts only two models with common names: the Airacobra pursuit (P-39) and the Flying Fortress heavy bomber (B-17-D).

The army's method of identification provides for a number of the model following a letter that symbolizes the special function of the plane. The letters used follow:

How Planes Work
Attack "A"; Autogiro, "G"; Bombardment, "B"; Cargo (transport), "C"; Fighter (multiplace), "F"; Observation, "O"; Photographic, "P"; Pursuit "P"; Pursuit (biplane), "PB"; Rotary wing, "R"; Training, primary, "PT"; Training, basic, "BT"; Training, advance, "AT".

If a letter follows the number such as B-17-D, it indicates minor improvements but no radical change in the model. An "X" preceding the model designation shows the plane is an experimental type, such as XP-1. A "Y" means the plane is a service test model, while a "Z" shows a ship is obsolete and no longer purchased.

Thus, a pursuit ship going through the various stages of its life would be designated as follows:
XP-1, experimental model; YP-1, service test model; P-1, standard; P-1A, the P-1 with minor improvements; P-1B, the P-1A with minor improvements; P-2, the P-1 with a major improvement, or an entirely new model which succeeded the P-1 series; ZP-1, the P-1 considered obsolete.

AROUND CITY HALL

Motorists are paying good money for the privilege of parking their cars in the business zones. The last collection for a 10 days period brought into general revenue $948.50. The collection this year out-totals that for the same period of 1940, according to reports.

It is likely that one of the retired policemen will be assigned 10 days hence to park their ears and listen for auto horn tooters. Those caught tooting horns when the car is not in operation or when the signal is not necessary for safety's sake will be required to pay the city $3.00.

At last the movement of bicycles here is to be regulated. When the ordinance is introduced, considered then passed, there'll not be much riding two on a "bike" or riding on sidewalks. Other traffic regulations also must be obeyed, according to indications expressed by councilmen.

Permits for building granted today follow: Pasquale Zito, garage, $100, 705 West North street; John D. Ingham, garage, $140, 1410 Neshannock boulevard; Attanasio Isolde, garage, $200, 613 Raymond street; and Louis Ezzo, fence, 7 South Liberty street.

Excavation will be completed for paving this week in North Jefferson street between Wilmington and Leasure avenues, according to City Engineer G. R. Throop. Three-fourths of the curb has been set and two blocks of stone foundation placed in Chestnut street between East Washington and Ray streets.

No work has been done on the widening of State street hill, a traffic menace in winter time. The street sign project is up in the air and the paving program has been slowed to a walk, all because men in these lines of endeavor cannot be secured because of various WPA reasons, City Engineer G. R. Throop said today.

New Reduction In State W. P. A. Is Threatened

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 17.—Twenty-five thousands W. P. A. workers in Pennsylvania today were threatened with loss of their jobs within the next few weeks in event Congress approves a drastically-reduced appropriation act.

Pennsylvania W. P. A. rolls, currently listing 90,000 employees, will be pruned to 68,000 project workers with a corresponding reduction in number of administrative employees, officials said.

Entire projects, in some instances, faced closure and W. P. A. work in some counties may be curtailed completely to meet the economy quota. Preliminary reductions were received at state W. P. A. headquarters in Harrisburg for making the reduction.

"The W. P. A. appropriation act, as passed by the House, will reduce the Pennsylvania quota to 68,000 project workers," Col. Philip Matthews, state W. P. A. administrator explained, "with a corresponding reduction of administrative employees."

"With this cut of 25,000 following immediately the reduction of 32,000 which took place between April 1 and today, the shutting down of complete projects, rather than attempting to spread the reduction over all existing projects, is suggested by the Washington office."

"In order to reach the figure of 68,000 by the end of the first week of July, it will be necessary to make reductions almost immediately and it will be necessary in some counties, where the load is particularly light, to close down W. P. A. work entirely."

Million And Half Autos Inspected

Present Inspection Period To End With July 31, It Is Announced

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 17.—With the present motor vehicle inspection period about half concluded, Secretary of Revenue William J. Hamilton, Jr., today announced that approximately 1,500,000 automobiles, or 100,000 more than at the corresponding time last year, have the new "sticker" affixed to their windshields. The present inspection period ends July 31.

"It is gratifying to find that more motorists than ever before are having their cars inspected early. This is the safe thing to do. It not only avoids the last-minute rush but gives the advantage of driving a car kept in good mechanical condition at all times," Mr. Hamilton stated.

"At the present time 1,501,410 'stickers' have been affixed to automobiles. This compares with 1,406,323 on May 15, 1940, showing an increase of about 100,000 this year over last. Furthermore, we expect that before the present inspection period ends some 2,500,000 motor vehicles in Pennsylvania will bear the new Liberty Bell sticker on their windshields," Mr. Hamilton concluded.

Officials of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles pointed out that during the past inspection period there were approximately 60,000 automobiles ordered "junked" because they could not pass inspection. This was an increase of 11,000 more than the previous inspection period.

Philadelphia To Celebrate First Airport Birthday

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, June 17.—This city's $12,000,000 municipal airport, constructed by the city and the W. P. A., will celebrate its first birthday June 20.

Already one of the major air terminals in the country, the airfield brings to Philadelphia coffers approximately $5,000 a month in revenue. About 10,000 passengers arrive and depart each month on the 49 planes which land and take off daily on regularly-scheduled flights.

Most of the revenue comes from the four major air lines explained Samuel H. Baxter, assistant director of public works, but other money comes from sight-seeing trips at the field. All-American Aviation, which operates an air mail route, uses the field as a regular terminus.

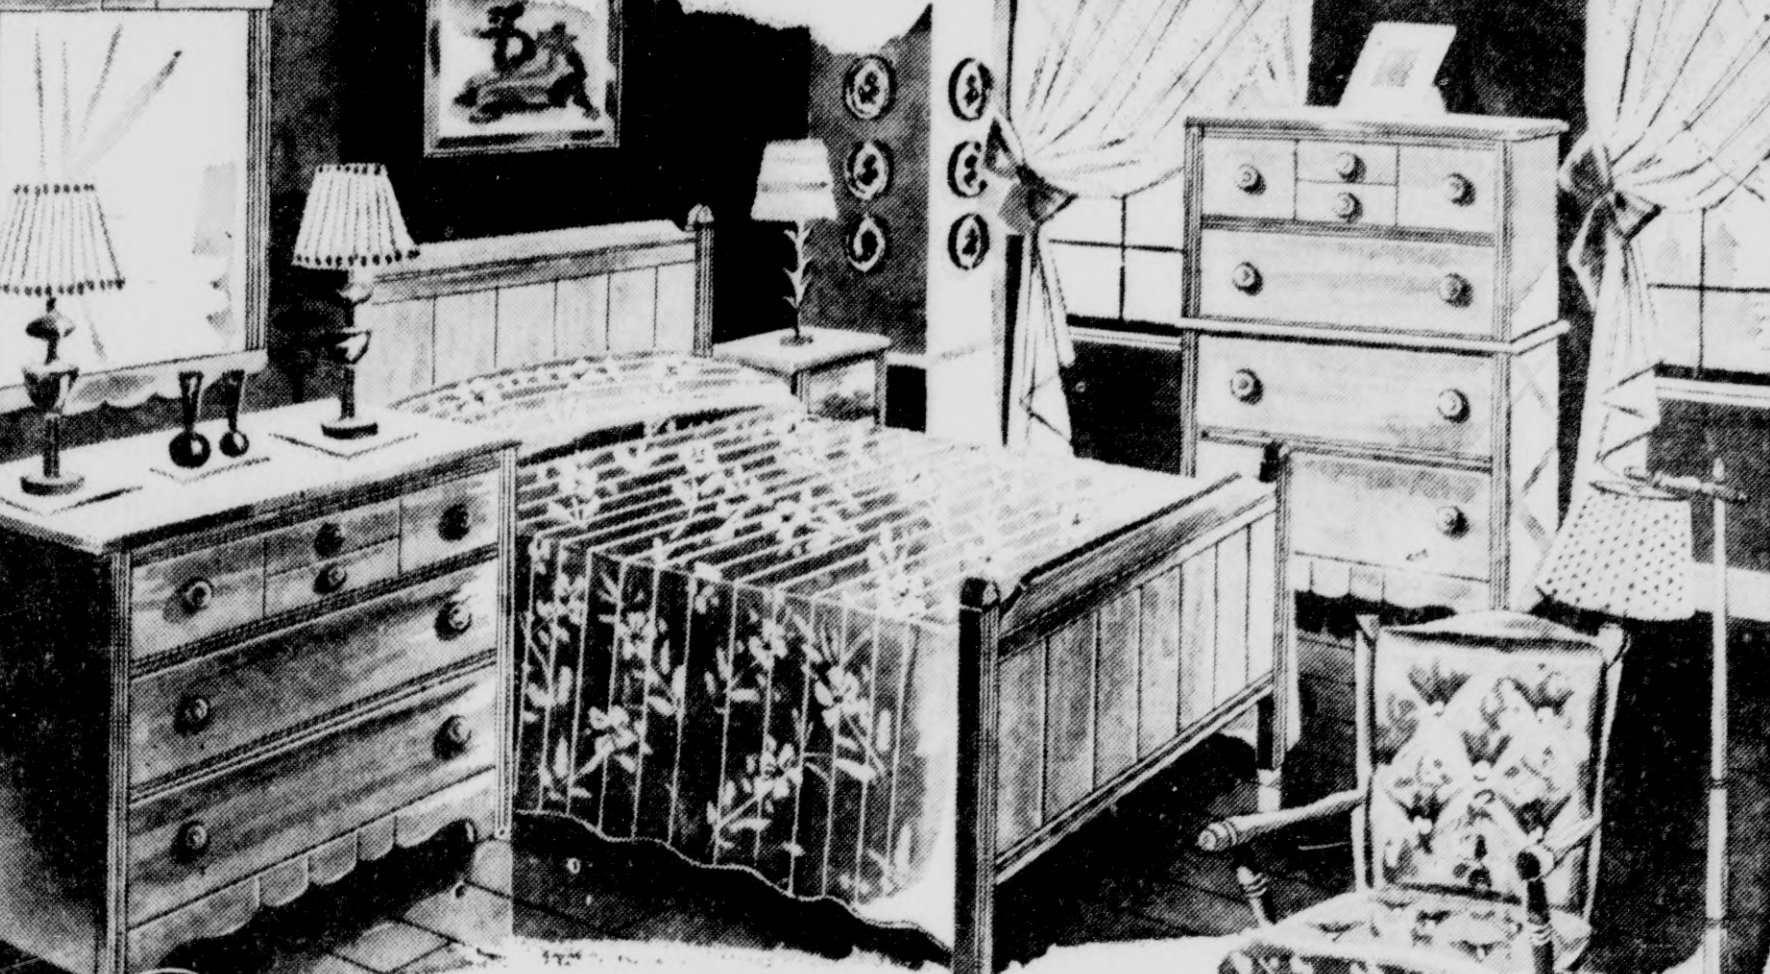

Although the airport boasts one of the best landing spaces in the country, it is far from complete. Baxter said.

"When money becomes available a number of things will be done," he stated. "For example, we already need a large new administration building with a restaurant in it, and need at least one big hangar to house and service private planes."

Housewives Will Meet On June 23-27

(International News Service)
STATE COLLEGE, June 17.—Housewives who will convene at the Pennsylvania State College for their annual Institute of Social Relations June 23-27 have changed their thinking from domestic problems to international affairs.
Such is the observation of Hugh G. Pyle, supervisor of informal instruction in the extension services of the college, who has been in charge of preparing the program for the past nine years in co-operation with the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs.
Problems of nutrition, home science and family relationships in general will give way to matters concerned with public opinion, unity in the Americas, and military and economic threats to the nation.

Marshal Petain Scathingly Reproaches Some Frenchmen

Makes Address On Anniversary

Assails Belief France In More Tragic Condition Than Year Ago

DECLARES FRANCE WILL LIVE AGAIN

(International News Service)
VICHY, June 17.—Chief of State Marshal Henri Philippe Petain in a radio broadcast to the nation today scathingly reproached Frenchmen who believe their national destiny is more tragic now than it was a year ago, in the hour of France's defeat.

In an address marking the first anniversary of his assumption of the post of governmental leadership, Petain declared:

Not Time For Despair
"This is not the time for despair. You are not abandoned or betrayed."

But he warned that France will still suffer for a long time and that the French people have not "finished paying for their faults."

"I need your faith," he declared. "Remember that just one year ago I made a gift to France, the gift of myself."

Relating how he had requested armistice terms from the Germans, he continued:

"My voice is firmer now, because France has lifted herself up again. But many Frenchmen refuse to recognize it."

"They have a short memory. 'France Will Live'."

"Of course French war prisoners have not yet returned. Women struggle and suffer. The food situation is bad and our children do not eat enough. But France will live. Houses and bridges are being reconstructed."

You are not abandoned or betrayed. People who tell you that are leading you to communism. You are suffering and will suffer much more, because we have not finished paying for our faults."

"I need your faith, the faith of your hearts and your reason. I need your wisdom and patience. You will acquire these in the discipline imposed by myself."

"Remember that you are men of an old and glorious nation. Do not be afraid to come to me, and we shall get out of the night."

HOME CONVENTION, BIBLE CONFERENCE

At the Gospel Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street, Rev. Fred Henry, of Harrisburg, will give a Bible study and discussion, this evening at 7:30. The Home Convention and Bible Conference opened on Monday evening, at the Gospel Tabernacle, when a good sized audience heard the speaker, Rev. Henry. There will be special music at the meeting, this evening.

Bids for the repairing of the Cherry street bridge and the erection of an addition to the court house will be advertised this week possibly on Wednesday, according to the county commissioners.

The Cherry street bridge is badly in need of repairs. Some time ago the H. B. Jacobson Company was asked to make an inspection of the bridge and report what repairs were needed. They found a number of faults that need correction if the bridge is to be used much longer and the commissioners decided to have the work done. It is thought the cost will run in the neighborhood of $30,000.

The addition to the court house will likely run around $60,000. This will give additional space to the county treasurer, county controller and the county commissioners as well as given the judges chambers in the main building.

Just how long it will take steel for the jobs is something that may be an item. Just now steel is needed in defense orders and hard to get for civilian jobs.

Plant Seizures Strongly Opposed

National Association of Manufacturers Raps Administration For Labor Attitude

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, June 17.—Rapping the administration for allowing labor "too much rope," President Walter D. Fuller indicated today the National Association of Manufacturers will strongly oppose plants seizure legislation in congress.

He urged a firm stand on the part of the government.

"The administration has indulged labor so much that some labor leaders believe they are exempt from all responsibilities, even to the nation in time of crisis," Fuller told a group of western Pennsylvania industrialists last night.

Donald M. Nelson, the Office of Production Management's director of purchases, told the manufacturers that "nothing must stand in the way" of an "all-out" defense program. If Hitler is to be prevented from attaining his goal of world domination, Nelson declared, the production of the democracies must surpass that of Hitler-conquered Europe.

Fuller said the North American Aviation plant strike at Inglewood, Cal., was the "extreme result of the acts of a labor government that has outdone itself—so much so that the United States army had to be called in to correct dramatically the evil of a vacillating 'too-much-rope' attitude toward labor."

Most of the passengers were sent home in taxis, and none required hospital treatment, the Pittsburgh Railways Company said. Some were treated at the homes and offices of nearby physicians.

The Mt. Lebanon car, carrying 30 passengers and operated by R. W. Richerichorn, was stopped for a red light in the junction. The Dormont car was operated by W. E. Farmer, who suffered cuts on his left hand and left leg.

Cities of 100,000 or more number 92, according to the 1940 census, a decrease of one in ten years. But the total population of these 92 cities was 37,987,989, compared with 36,195,171 in 1930.

The Human Side Of The News

(By EDWIN C. HILL)

Copyright 1941 King Features Syndicate, Inc.

The ancients considered the Pillars of Hercules, outposts of Gibraltar, the ends of the world. Beyond them lay only dark, tumultuous seas, reaching out into infinity, peopled only by demons. Then, as now, the Rock was a world symbol of impenetrable might. Long before the British came, it was strewn with the bones of those who would rule the seas and their gateways.

Mark Twain viewed the Rock from the deck of the Quaker City, a side-wheeler which had just taken a terrific beating in a howling tempest. In his "Innocents Abroad," the story of his European trip, published in 1869, he tells of a queerly clipper ship, breaking out the American flag as she swept by, homeward bound.

This reminder that Gibraltar was not the end of the world, and that there was another continent whose hope was not in guns and battlements but in the aspirations of free men, stirred a thrill of patriotism in Mark Twain's heart. He was skeptical about much of the musty past of old Europe, and this insular, rocky island, through his book, brought him much bitter criticism and charges that he was an uncouth provincial who never should have been allowed to travel.

If Gibraltar isn't in the news when this goes to press, it may be almost any day now. Not only airplanes but the enveloping movements of Nazi power during the last three or four years have made it much more vulnerable than when the Moors made it their citadel, nearly 1300 years ago, or at any time since.

It has long been a key-spot of imperial destiny, like the plains of Thrace, the Dardanelles and other passage-ways of the great Indo-European migrations. Mark Twain saw it through clear, blue unclouded American eyes and his word-picture is highly interesting today in the climatic drama of the hour.

"In a few moments," he wrote, "a lonely and enormous mass of rock, standing seemingly in the center of a wide strait and apparently washed on all sides by the sea, swung magnificently into view, and we needed no tedious, traveled parrot to tell us it was Gibraltar. There could not be two rocks like that in one kingdom."

"The Rock of Gibraltar is about a mile and a half long. I should say, by 1400 to 1500 feet high, and a quarter of a mile wide at its base. One side and one end of it come about as straight out of the sea as the side of a house, the other end is irregular, and the other side is a steep slant. At the foot of this slant is the walled town of Gibraltar—or rather, the town occupies part of the slant."

"Everywhere—on hillside, in the precipice, by the sea, on the heights—everywhere you choose to look, Gibraltar is clad with masonry and bristling with guns. Gibraltar has stood several protracted sieges, one of them of nearly four years' duration (it failed) and the English only captured it by stratagem. The wonder is that anyone should ever dream of so impossible a project as the taking it by assault—and yet it has been tried more than once."

"A secret chamber in the rock was discovered some time ago. In that cave, also, are human bones, and wise men have ventured to say that those men not only lived before the flood, but as much as ten thousand years before it. It may be true—it looks reasonable enough—but as long as these parties can't vote any more, the matter can be of no great public interest. In this cave, likewise are found skeletons and fossils of animals that exist in every part of Africa, yet with memory and tradition never existed in any portion of Spain save this lone peak of Gibraltar!"

There was a sweep of several millennia in Mark Twain's backward look. And what laggards these centuries were, paced against the swift-footed 70 years that lay just ahead!

Although the U. S. was not at war, "operations of war" are listed as the cause of four deaths in the census returns covering 1939. Three of these were deaths from injuries during the first World War and one was the death of an American citizen from injuries received in the Spanish Revolution.

Girl Scouts Still Having Lots Of Fun

Girl Scout Camp Program
Proves Interesting Despite Weather Conditions

ELLWOOD CITY, June 17.—Like the post office department of the United States, neither rain nor hail nor mud nor snow will stop the Ellwood City Girl Scout Camp from carrying on in its work and fun.

It may mean a little change of schedule and a little ingenuity in scouting technique, but that is not so much to ask of Girl Scouts.

During Monday afternoon the girls got ready for a cook-out in the evening, played games and worked at handicraft. Basket-weaving was the order of the day under the direction of Mrs. George Bloom and Mrs. Halcyon Brandon. Between showers the more adventurous went swimming and had a try at out-door sports.

The cook-out became, perforce, a cook-in, but each group managed to prepare and cook their supper in the dining hall so the whole flavor of the thing was by no means lost.

Later in the evening each of the units separated for their campfire programs and the girls of units 5 and 6 entertained enterprising young blades who had responded, through rain and fog, to attend the Co-Ed Party. Games were played and dancing, the piece de resistance. After a little refreshment, the thing broke up at 9:30.

While this was progressing things were happening in other parts of the camp. Word came out of unit one that everything was not as it should be. Some strange animal was bothering some of the less intrepid scouts. A determined search on the part of Counsellor Gamble, who was hoping all the time that it might be a possum which she could add to the museum of natural history, found nothing and, despite, occasional alarms through the late evening peace was restored.

This will be cheering news for the citizens of this county, and our friends in Mercer, Crawford, etc., as they will be enabled to reach Pittsburgh from New Castle in about four hours, as stages will be placed immediately on the road from this place to Enon Valley. P.S. The cars will commence running on Monday, and we are told that the fare is not to exceed $1.50 from New Castle to Pittsburgh. The cars will leave Enon Valley station at 2 o'clock p. m.

ENON VALLEY STATION

A large house and store room is in course of erection, and almost completed, at the railroad station in Enon Valley, for the accommodation of the public at that point. The people in that section are awake to their own interests and are making ample arrangements for the vast amount of travel that is now turning in that direction.

WATER

It has been suggested by a number of our citizens that councils should make some arrangements for the introduction of water into New Castle to be used in case of fire. Cisterns could be placed at the corner of almost every street, which could be filled by springs from the hill, on the north side of town, if they were turned in the proper direction. The effects of the scarcity of water was very apparent at the late fire on Jefferson street, when a strong spring was within a few hundred feet of the fire.

ACCIDENT

On Wednesday afternoon last, as the canal boat None Such, Capt. Eberhart, was coming up the canal, the horse used in towing the boat accidentally fell into the canal from the bridge just below the Orizaba Iron Works. The driver was on the horse at the time, and went down with him, but was not much injured. The horse was considerably injured.

This is, therefore, to give notice to all persons not to credit her in my name or to any amount on my account as I will pay no debts contracted by her, or for anything purchased by her except it be on my written order.

The word "lunatic" comes from the Latin root "luna," meaning moon. It used to be thought that insanity was induced by the moon in some unexplained manner, and the word "lunatic" actually means moonstruck. Modern science, however, knows that there is no connection between insanity and the moon, but the ancient appellation "lunatic" still persists.

How Ex-Champions See Conn And Louis Battle Wednesday

Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jim Braddock, Maxie Baer and Sharkey Make Comment

Most Of Former Greats Pick Louis To Keep His Title After Tomorrow Night

By MAX KASE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 17.—And what do five of our former heavyweight champions think of Billy Conn's chances of stripping Joe Louis of his title?

Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney were queried. So were Max Baer and Jack Sharkey and Jim Braddock, who, from painful first-hand experiences, know the chilling might of Joe's right. Baer was pounded into bits in four rounds. Sharkey, past his peak, was mowed down in three rounds, while Braddock, after eight heroic rounds, surrendered his title to the bomber.

What Ex-Champs Think

The quintet of ex-champs was asked for suggestion on how Conn should fight Louis. With the exception of Tunney, all volunteered ideas.

Dempsey leaned toward the champion.

Tunney could give Conn only scant victory hope.

Baer pooh-pooh'd Conn's chances, saw only a Louis knockout.

Braddock saw a chance for the Pittsburgher.

Sharkey was most definite that a smart fight by Conn could topple Louis from his title perch. Sharkey even saw the possibility of Conn knocking out Louis.

Stranger things have happened in this strange boxing business.

Dempsey, just returned from a tour of the backlands, said:

"If I were Billy Conn fighting Joe Louis, I would start on by bicycle with the first bell and keep on going. If Louis has gone back as they claim he has, Billy might not have to pedal so fast."

Would Crowd Conn

"If I were Joe Louis I'd get on top of Billy Conn and crowd him so fiercely that he wouldn't have a chance to use his speed or boxing. I'd keep walking into him and never stop."

Tunney was brief and pointed.

"Conn has courage and brains—two elements that are hard to evaluate," Gene said. "They are very important factors and we can't under-value them. But we must not lose sight of the fact that the only big guns that will be brought into the ring the night of the fight will be in the possession of Louis.

"In my opinion, Louis' big guns will be sufficient to overcome whatever advantage Conn might have in courage and brawn."

Baer was disdainful, even contemptuous of Conn's prospects. He said:

"The best way for Conn to fight Louis is to sit out in the ringside. Conn is much too light and hasn't much of a chance unless there's something up I don't know about."

"About his only chance would be to run around the ring for a few rounds, but he probably couldn't last more than a few, even at that."

Donovan Protects Louis

"If Donovan is referee, he has even a smaller chance of winning or even staying in the ring. Conn can't fight two men, Donovan and Louis. Donovan goes along with Louis to protect the champ. With this setup, Conn hasn't a chance now or ever."

Braddock refuses to take such a hopeless outlook. He has his formula for a Conn victory.

"If I were Conn, with Conn's boxing ability, great left hand, fast footwork, I would fight Louis into knots, making him miss his best punches, outpointing him with a fast left hand," says Gentleman Jim.

"Being the lighter and faster of the two, it stands to reason that Louis would be the first to tire, leaving me with the last five rounds to win of by myself like Whirlaway."

"On the other hand," Braddock went on, giving the other side of the story, "if I were Louis with his punching ability but with legs as heavy as Joe's seem to be, my best bet would be to stalk Conn and try to corner him and let my heavy artillery go."

Sees Louis Slipping

Sharkey, a pub owner in Boston, sees Louis slipping. He gives the clever boxer a splendid chance of scoring an upset and sees the tremendous self-confidence of Billy as chief hazard.

Says the former glib:

"Billy Conn can lick Joe Louis by fighting his own fight. I mean by that if Conn will go in there and jab and jab and sidestep, forcing Louis to miss and keeping him off balance, Conn can win."

"Conn can fight that kind of a fight, but it takes a strong head."

"What Conn must do is watch himself, box as he should box, hit without getting hit, step out of range, if he does that, and can hit Louis when he is off balance, he can even knock Louis out."

"The only thing that will lick Conn will be his own self-confidence. If anything, his heart is too big. It is the thing that makes him a good fighter, but at the same time, in this particular case, it could be disastrous if he tried to engage in a slugfest with Louis."

Craig Wood Guns For Triple Title

Craig Wood is sharpening his clubs in the hope of capturing the triple title of goldfom.

Wood, who has won the Masters and National Open championships, needs only the P. G. A. bauble to become the first to grab all three titles in one year.

Until recently, the 40-year-old star was noted as a perpetual runner-up in major tournaments.

The P. G. A. tourney is billed for Denver in July.

Louis And Conn End Training

Both Boys Take It Easy Today As They Await Big Test Wednesday Night

ODDS SOARING ON CHAMPION

By JACK MAHON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 17.—Razor sharp, just as coldly effective and faster than he's been at any time in the past year, Joe Louis wound up thirteen consecutive days of training today for his 18th heavyweight title defense against Billy Conn at the Polo Grounds tomorrow night.

Louis, grimly confident about this fight, looked magnificent in a streamlined speed drill which concluded his boxing program yesterday and as Conn's money was slow in appearing, odds on the champion to retain his crown soared from 12 to 14-5.

Joe just limbered up today but he has worked harder for this fight than for any since his famed return massacre of Max Schmeling here in '38. Louis, determined to polish his footwork and speed for the fast-stepping Mr. Conn, boxed on 10 of the 13 days he's worked and did gym work the other three days—the first time in years he has never taken a day off during a training grind.

Novas Look On

Yesterday before an audience which included Ray Carlen and his brother Lou Nova, who expects to meet Louis in September, Joe whirled through two rounds each with George Fitch, a heavyweight, and Jim Ritchie, a light-heavyweight of considerable speed. Both danced around and away from the bomber all through their drills and were considerably worn when they had ended.

The champion, however, was very fresh, looked easy and gave each a severe drubbing. He caught Ritchie, particularly, with some hard left hooks to the head, followed by lightning rights to the temple. As both boys worked very hard to keep out of range one observer cracked:

"This looks like a pre-view of the big fight."

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At Washington—Bob Pastor, 179, New York, decisioned Buddy Scott, 181, Washington (10).

At Pittsburgh—Pat Comiskey, 215, Paterson, N. J., awarded technical knockout over Babe Ritchie, 205, Lubbock, Texas (1).

At Baltimore—Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia, 139, knocked out Manuel Villa II, 140, Mexico, (1).

At Philadelphia—Lou Salica, 177, Brooklyn, decisioned Tommy Forte, 174, Philadelphia (15). Salica retained Bantamweight championship.

ALLIED IS CADET

Dave Allerdice, Princeton University football star, noted for his passing ability, was accepted for training in the Army Flying Cadet Corps. He had to reduce from 195 pounds to 181 before being accepted.

CHURCH LEAGUE GAMES

Two church softball games are on the menu for tonight at 6 o'clock as follows—Baptists vs. Epworth at Gaston Park, and Christians vs. Third U. P. at Rose avenue.

CORNELL CAPTAIN

ITHACA, N. Y.—Kenneth L. Ziegler, middle distance runner from White Plains, N. Y., was elected captain of Cornell's 1942 track and field team.

THE outcome of the scrap may hinge on the style of the principals. Should Louis find Billy an easy target, the setto will be as lopsided as a 10-cent baseball after nine innings of play. If Billy can keep his left into Louis' face and thus keep the champ off balance, the Bomber may be lost. It could be a lopsided fight either way.

We slant toward Conn because it seems that Billy's style is by far more intricate to solve than Louis'. Equipped with the best left in the business and gazelle-like speed in his feet, Conn can duck those powerful fists. Louis on the other hand, will have to evade that snake-like left and at the same time cope with speed. Louis' task appears the harder.

A Louis victory would mean another defense against Lou Nova and then possibly retirement. The coronation of a new champ would necessitate an encore and probably a million dollar gate. From the financial standpoint, the guys on the right side of the counter are hoping for a Conn victory. The fight, nevertheless, has pushed to the side, for a while at least, the horrendous thing that shouldn't be—the war across the seas.

There is a strong possibility that David may fell Goliath again. If Conn can keep loading his sling-shot and hitting his m-w-k, Goliath must topple some way down the line. And, conversely enough, it can go the other way around if Louis can lay his powerful mitts against the jaw of his smaller opponent. That old "if" crops up into a thing that bordered along ridiculousness about a year ago.

We've got a hunch that both fighters are slightly puzzled. Having never faced a Billy Conn, the Bomber, no doubt, won't know how to cope with Conn's maneuvers until the fight starts. The same goes for Conn. Up until the starting bell sounds, no one knows the reaction of the pair. If Louis finds Conn's system a bit too tricky to fathom, he is doomed. Billy's in the same fix if he can't solve Louis' style.

Jittery Indians Lose To Yankees

Yanks Dump Tribe Three In Row To Cut Lead To One Game, Indians Erratic

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 17.—A searching glance along the baseball horizon today reveals an old familiar up-heaval that, unless we are mistaken, looks quite like another collapse of the Cleveland Indians.

While it is entirely possible that the thing may turn out to be a hogchoker in the dark it still has the earmarks of the disintegration of tribal pennant aspirations. Briefly, it is similar to situation that prevailed about this time last year when Cleveland cracked in the clutch and went down swinging in the American League.

Clutch Game Away

The tribe was a sorry outfit when it tramped for Philadelphia last night after blowing the final and third game of its series with the New York Yankees.

Just when it appeared that New York's winning streak would be snapped at seven straight, Cleveland's defense fell apart like a bullet-riddled airplane and the Yanks won, 6 to 4. Cleveland's loss enabled New York to gain another full game.

The third in as many days—on the tribe and, otherwise, to be only a game behind the pacemakers when the Chicago White Sox invade the Yankee stadium today.

The victory, however, was costly for New York. Shortstop Frank Tomar was lost to the team for several days. He sustained a spiked hand in the second inning.

The game marked the 29th in succession that Joe DiMaggio has secured a hit. This equaled the best game-by-game hitting any Yankee ever did, but he must go along to 41 games until he equals the 1922 record of George Sisler.

Only other duel for the American diadem resulted in a 3 to 1 victory for Washington over Detroit. Ken Chase scattered eight hits to chalk up his first win in a couple of months while Bobo Newsom floundered again in his prolonged comeback effort.

In the National, New York's Giants renewed their effort to head off the revamped Cincinnati Reds as Bill Lohrman hurled a third hit 3 to 0 victory over the world champions who were stryimed from the outset by Johnny Vander Meer's wildness. The Chicago Cubs subdued Philadelphia, 3 to 1. Jake Moody, who horsecollared the Phils for eight innings, was tapped for a rally in the ninth, whereupon Tot Pressnell relieved him and choked off the Quaker rally.

Rain and wet grounds forced postponement of the Boston Braves war dance at Pittsburgh.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Crankcase oil and poison ivy do not mix.
 Crankcase oil, thinned by kerosene, will kill poison ivy plants.
 The best way to eradicate poison ivy is to dig it out and burn it.
 The entire root has to be dug up or it will sprout again.
 A poison ivy digger should wear heavy clothes and gloves.
 No one is immune to poison ivy, though some think they are.
 After years of handling the vine, one may fall a victim.
 Nor is there a poison ivy season. The stalk is dangerous even in winter when completely bare.
 When exposed one should promptly apply soap to all skin areas.
 Poison ivy can be extremely distressing.
 Don't fool with it.

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEALL

The swimming season is here . . . that means that the rescue squads over the county must always be on their toes. It has been suggested that the County Commissioners buy the Ellwood City Squad an outboard motor . . . for the drowning on the slippery Rock . . . their work would have been much easier and effective. We often wonder just what the County will do with all the money they are trying to save . . . when things are really needed . . . and the things are needed cost so little.

Have you been out around Cascade Park recently? No! Then you are missing something . . . the flowers are blooming and the place looks like a dream garden. All the flowers that are growing in the Park Proper were started in the Parks own greenhouse . . . some of these same flowers are now making the grounds around the Public Golf course more attractive. Take a trip around the city and see what's going on.

One of the best things the WPA ever accomplished and is still accomplishing is the sidewalk project . . . the property owner just buys the material needed and the WPA does the rest . . . this saves a lot of accidents, accidents that might prove to be very expensive . . . so look over your sidewalks.

Things are progressing very nicely now . . . if we could only get the public to understand that it's not right and all that rot, to jay walk. If the men of the law would go up very nicely to a pedestrian who jay walks and tell them about it . . . maybe the practice would stop. A little education in the right way would go a long way.

And motorists . . . when you park your car at night on the downtown streets . . . don't forget to dim or turn off your headlights . . . many folks seem to forget or delight in keeping their lights on full tilt . . . and don't forget that while on the highway, there is a state law governing motorists who don't dim their headlights for oncoming cars . . . and the law is enforced.

Thirsty . . . then go to the second or third floors of the city building . . . new drinking fountains are being installed for the workers and visitors to the city building.

Market Resumes Advance After Several Days Of Backwardness

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, June 17.—The stock market resumed its advance today after the backwardness in the three preceding sessions.

A feature was a rumup of nearly five points in Commonwealth and Southern preferred.

Motor shares rallied from their recent unsettlement due to government action on production and prices. Chrysler gained over a point and General Motors was up fractionally.

West house was another issue to rise over a point.

Steels scored fractional gains, and a better price trend was apparent in coppers and oils. Atchafalca rose almost a point in the rails, but C. & O. was sluggish. Small gains predominated in aviation and chemicals.

Men In Armored Division Have Own Language

Variety Of Expressions Invented Which Puzzle The Uninitiated

EVEN FOOD IS

"SLANGUED"

(International News Service)
FORT KNOX, Ky., June 17.—When a sky winder goes off the iron beam and is forced to hit the silk, it's bad and even gravel agitators and yellow legs are going to talk about it at the G. I. struggle.

But it's also a cinch that the lay public will not know what these sundry characters are talking about. They will, however, be dressed in Uncle Sam's khaki and even a civvy will soon catch on to the fact that the boys are talking their own, or army, brand of English.

At Fort Knox, headquarters of the army's first armored division, the language is especially rich—a mixture of the good talk that World War doughboys knew and a hodge podge of the mechanical lingo of modern motors, tanks, guns, and planes.

Definition Of Sky Winder

A sky winder, for instance, is an air corps man. When he's flying the iron beam, he's following the course of a railroad. When he's forced to hit the silk, it means that he has had to make a parachute jump.

The gravel agitators and yellow legs who are apt to be talking about the event are respectively infantrymen and cavalry men.

The place for their conversation is a dance at the post—a "government issue struggle."

In addition, the soldier has a thousand other names for the events in his life, the food he eats, the weapons he uses and the officers above him. At the mess table he calls his coffee "ink," the sugar and cream that go with it become

"side arms." Eggs are cackle-beries.

When he goes on a G. I. war maneuver, he is fed from a bean gun (mobile kitchen).

Cross Bar Hotel

When the soldier misbehaves, perhaps on the advice of a guard-house lawyer, a fellow who thinks he knows the ropes but doesn't, he is not placed in the guardhouse but in barracks 13 or the cross bar hotel.

Perhaps the most colorful words the doughboy uses refer to his equipment. A tank is a hell buggy, a doodlebug, an iron horse and a dozen more.

A machine gun is a shotgun or scatter gun. The large artillery are known as barkers, a 37 mm gun is little poison. A motorcycle is a pipsickle.

And when all these odd machines and guns are set arrolling in mounted review to display Uncle Sam's armed strength, the show to the boys in the tanks is nothing but a rat race.

Garden Club Adds $50 To USO Fund

Victory For $20,000 Drive Expected At Final Thursday Report

The Lawrence County Garden club has donated the entire $50 proceeds of its recent garden show to Lawrence county's drive in behalf of the United Service Organizations for National Defense.

Solicitors of New Castle and the county will attend a "victory rally" at The Castleton Thursday, June 19, at 7:30 p. m. First reports from Ellwood City, where a separate campaign is under way, are expected to be heard.

Of the county's $20,000 goal, over $15,000 has been raised. The $20,000 is expected to be reached by Thursday.

Warns Motorists To Get Stickers

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 17.—The Department of Revenue today warned motorists to comply with inspection regulations and have a "sticker" affixed to automobile windshields before the inspection ends July 31.

Secretary William J. Hamilton, Jr., said that approximately 1,501,110 inspections have been made during this period or more than 100,000 than during a corresponding period last year.

Biggest users of pig iron and scrap iron and steel in the 22 principal industries in the machinery group are the manufacturers of tractors, according to the census.

Slippery Rock Man Is Killed

Two Others Hurt In Accident Near Their Home In Butler County

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., June 17.—Charles C. Stewart, 61, was killed instantly and a daughter and a son-in-law were hurt when struck by a car near the Stewart home, north of here, late Sunday night.

The driver of the car, DeLass McGarvey, 26, of 504 Elm street, Slippery Rock, told Acting Coroner Paul P. Tebay that he saw the car through the rain, but thought it was parked and did not observe the people beside it.

According to reports Mr. Stewart, his daughter Margaret and Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Twentier of Prospect were standing beside the parked machine while Twentier tested the oil. Mr. Stewart was holding a lantern, according to members of his family.

McGarvey told the acting coroner that he detected only a slight bump at the time, such as might be made by a car passing over a rough piece of road. McGarvey stopped and with his companion, Gerald Brown of Harrisville, picked up Miss Stewart who had suffered leg, shoulder and pelvic injuries.

Her father was found by the side of the road with a fractured skull and both legs broken. Twentier escaped with minor bruises and laceration. The daughter was taken to the Butler County Memorial hospital.

The Stewarts have resided on the Mercer pike a mile from Slippery Rock for the past three and a half years. Surviving the victim are his widow and two daughters.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way. The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day. If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging energy, getting up nights, aching, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder. Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

'Y' Camper List At All-Time High

Registration Still Open; Public Inspection Starts June 24

Camp Fred L. Rentz of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. will be open for a pre-camp public inspection from June 24 to 28, General Secretary Robert L. Meermans of the association said today.

Parents of "Y" boys and others who wish to view the 26-acre Slippery Rock creek camp retreat will be urged to drive out. A large group of 4-H club boys will take over the grounds June 30 for a one-week camp, and on July 7 the "Y" camp season commences.

Registration figures for the "Y" season continue to set an all-time high. Physical Director William Winter reported. The first week has 68 boys signed up, the second 73, the third 67, the fourth 24 and the fifth and final week, 6.

Winter said openings still remain for the first, third, fourth and fifth weeks—but not for the second.

The annual pre-camp "camp reunion" of all "Y" boys will take place in the association rooms Friday evening, June 20. Both Physical Director Winter and Boys' Work Director John D. Thompson are handling arrangements.
